Pinoy exodus to continue as Israel rejects ceasefire calls

By Vol. Contreras

THE PHILIPPINES SAID YESTERDAY it was prepared for the worst after Israel rejected calls for a truce to allow food and medicine to reach thousands of civilians trapped in southern Lebanon after 18 days of war.

Officials of the Department of Foreign Affairs gave this bleak forecast as 229 more Filipino refugees, including children, flew back home on four different flights after escaping from Lebanon.

A senior DFA official projected the number from Lebanon might go as far as the next few weeks.

The Israeli bombardment of its neighboring Arab country has forced more than half a million Lebanese to flee. (Story in World, Page A22)

Foreign Undersecretary Erlinda Gonses said the time has come to end the latest as announced by the DFA's Office of Middle East Affairs.

Gonses said the situation of a major ground war in Lebanon, which is concentrated in southern Lebanon, might "induce" more Filipinos based in the capital Beirut and in certain regions to evacuate.

"We are prepared for the worst," DFA spokeswoman Erlinda Gonses said.

Lebanese consul: Just give the funds

By Blanche S. Rivera

THE LEBANESE CONSUL IN THE Philippines is asking Filipinos to stop squabbling over their trapped compatriots in Lebanon.

"Let us put this petty bickering about funds aside and find a viable solution to the situation. Put the hands out there for the Filipinos," Consul Joseph P.F. Assad said in a letter in Quezon City yesterday.

Assad also offered a piece of advice to the overseas Filipino workers caught by the Israeli bombardment in Lebanon.

"We cannot ask them to stay here if they love the land they work in," he said. "But those who want to stay can talk to their Lebanese employers to have their wages in a bank."

"It would help a lot if they asked for a visa."

Old soldiers fight new war

By Michael Lim Utan
and TJ Rangan

MILITARY RETIREES SCORED A SMALL victory in April when the House of Representatives repealed a Malacañan decree that disallowed the benefits of retired Armed Forces of the Philippines personnel who had accepted foreign citizenship.

But the battle is far from over because a counterpart measure seeking the repeal of Presidential Decree 1638 (or the AFP Military Personnel Retirement and Separation Decree of 1979) has yet to be filed in the Senate.

Approved on third reading last March 2016, the bill was previously introduced by Rep. Ernesto Golez of the party-list group Iternas Federation and co-sponsored by 11 other lawmakers.

The 1979 decree allows personnel who retired from the AFP after Sept. 30, 1979.

House's retired brigade general of the defense Philippine Coast Guard and a former ambassador, Golez is the lone representative of the retiree sector in Congress, and has been at the forefront of the struggle to protect the welfare of more than 250,000 war veterans.

The 79-year-old Golez decided the veterans as "veterans and able-bodied soldiers" 40 years ago.

He said he would have wanted to personally visit Golez except that because of his "bad heart," his doctor would not allow him to travel by air for more than one hour.

Golez pointed out that prior to 1979, AFP retirees received their pension from the AFP except for Golez's group.

"And it was not a crime, not even a felony to receive gratuity for whatever reason," he said.

Persons and entities who have claims against Owens Corning or its related debtors (the "Debtors"), the Official Committee of Asbestos Claimants, and the Legal Representatives for the Future Claimants.

A detailed description of the Plan, called the "Disclosure Statement," which was approved by the Bankruptcy Court on July 11, 2006, together with copies of the Plan and the Voting Materials (called a "Voting Package"), has been made available to holders of claims against the Debtors, or their lawyers.

Important Plan Provisions Regarding Asbestos-Related Claims
The Plan provides for certain claims to be set aside for persons, and pay all eligible asbestos personal injury claims. The Plan provides that persons and entities with asbestos-related claims will be treated fairly based on meeting their claims directly against any of the Debtors. You should read the Plan and Disclosure Statement carefully for details about how this may affect your rights.

Special Plan Voting Procedures
The Bankruptcy Court has issued orders describing exactly who can vote on the Plan and how to vote. The Disclosure Statement contains information that will help you decide how to vote on the Plan if you are entitled to vote. Your legal rights may be affected if you do not vote on the Plan. To be counted, a valid voting on the Plan must be received by the Debtors' Voting Agent by 4:00 p.m., per voting/Pacific Time, on September 1, 2006. If a valid vote is not received by that date and time, it will not be counted.

Copies of the Disclosure Statement, Solicitation Package, the notice of the hearing to consider confirmation of the Plan and the procedures related to it, and other key documents related to the Debtors' bankruptcy cases, can be obtained at the Debtors' website (www.owenscorp.com) or by e-mail to the Debtors' website (info@owenscorp.com) or by e-mail to the Debtors' website (info@owenscorp.com).

Asbestos Personal Injury and Wreckless Death Claims
Holders of asbestos personal injury or wreckless death claims are not to be paid by the Bankruptcy Court at this time. The Bankruptcy Court has established procedures for holders of asbestos personal injury and wreckless death claims to vote on the Plan. Lawyers for holders of these claims may vote on the Plan on behalf of their clients if authorized by their client. If you are unsure whether your lawyer is authorized to vote on your behalf, please contact your lawyer.

Hearing to Confirm the Plan
A hearing to confirm the Plan, the "Confirmation Hearing," will be held before the Honorable Judge E. F. Fung, United States Bankruptcy Judge at the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, 400 North Third Street, Philadelphia, PA 19101 on September 12, 2006 at 10:00 a.m. You may attend the hearing, but are not required to do so. If you want to object to the Plan, you must follow the procedures outlined in the Solicitation Package. Objections to the Plan must be filed with the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court, United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, 100 Market Street, 3rd Floor, Wilmington, Delaware 19801, and received no later than 4:00 p.m. (per voting/Pacific Time) on September 1, 2006. If you or your attorney do not file an objection, the Court may conclude that you do not oppose confirmation of the Plan and may enter an order confirming the Plan, which you will be bound.

Challenge to big business: Put more cash in schools plan

By Phillip E. Talbot

SEN. JIM DUFFY (R-Arizona) says he will introduce legislation to help states adopt a federal program and help address the $27.4-billion budget shortfall for public education.

Enlighten, an educationist, criticized his challenge to the Philippine business for Social Progress and the League of Corporations' Foundations which, he said, "have received millions of pesos in well-targeted development funds in the Philippines."

“We’re concerned that both the WHO and UN are already spreading an inappropriate scare,” says Dr. David A. Asch, a professor of medicine at the University of Michigan Medical School in Ann Arbor. “We’re not saying that we’re not concerned about the disease, but we’re saying that we’re not sure that the WHO and UN are doing the right thing.”

unity of purpose is markedly missing out of the school system's face book: various shortages—of classrooms, water, textbooks and teachers," Gallucci said.

Established in 1978, PDAF is the nation's largest fund, awarded primarily to social development concerns. Organized in 1990, LDF is a network of over 60 of the country's biggest corporate foundations, led by Agria Foundation Inc. "Increased support for basic education is the best way for corporations to help build up and modernize our human resources, raise productivity and achieve economic development," that has said.

The Adopt-A-School Program of 1998, also known as Republic Act No. 8225, gives private entities the right to take the public schools, particularly those found in the com-

Under the program, authored by Dallas and then sent under Rep. Ann Marie Pertsch, private casinos are encouraged to use port family development, the construction and upgrading of school libraries, the provision of textbooks and other teaching materials and the modernization of instructional technologies.

He said the PIR and ICF to coordinate with the Department of Education could set their own specific and achievable targets, as it has many channels through which they could be achieved.

He said the global economic "crisis" had become too much for governments alone to address on its own. "There is need for the private sector to get involved," he said.

Using a report submitted by the Digital to Congress, Gifford said $28.5 billion in new spending was "immediately needed" to enable the public schools to adequately meet the needs of students currently enrolled.

additional hours to teachers to make writing the instruction to pupil edition. I did not find $15 billion or 2.2 million extra.

Islanders get clean water

By John S. Alcala
Davao Island, Zamboanga City

RAIN IS LIKE GOLD HERE. "If there's no rain, we will have no money; we will have no food," said Musa Muhammad, the maintenance officer of the rainwater catchment program in Tiranbo Island.

The program is one of the three major projects launched by the Alliance for Mindanao Off-grid Inseparable Energy Program or AOME in 2004 after organizing the community into the Tiranbo Energy Inseparable Energy and Community Development Association (Tiranbo).

Since 2002, it has cost about $200,000 for the construction of the community water system in Tiranbo Island.

The island, especially in rain, is at least once a month that hardly fills the 1,000-liter capacity rainwater tank.

"The water we use goes in 400 liters, which is not enough for the more than a thousand households," said Rula Tiranbo-mansur (A. Alonzo, 6).

Each member of a family requires 20 liters of water a day, but with about 400 liters, it poses a huge problem for the community," A. Alonzo said.

But villagers do not run out of water to get clean and safe water.

Stranger than what Musa said the community which is about an hour long from the city is the situation, is dependent on water provided by nearby island villages.

"Water is really scarce here. Each 20-liter container costs at P1 and another P1 for the fuel, that's about P2 per container," Musa said. In February this year, members paid officers of Tiranbo went through a formal Water Distribution Training led by the Department of Health for Western Mindanao.

A subcommittee of water is asked to be 20 liter container water.

Musa said priority is given to the poorest members of the community for the water gathered from their rainwater catchment.

The group even demonstrated their new found knowledge with Tiranbo Anti-Poverty Committee Secretary Encarnacion Ampatuan.

"I am very impressed, even the most rich way and not fully educated fishermen and farmers could use product safe water for their own people," Ampatuan said.

Warda Thomas Capelin, head of Asian Peoples' Solidarity, along with United Nations Technical Mission Resource Center, expressed satisfaction over the transformation of Tiranbo.

Capelin said two years ago, Tiranbo did not have water and light and the people were disappointed.

Two years ago, just about 100 households, mostly belonging to the Tiranbo barangay in the Tiranbo Island, the community now has 1,200 households, comprising of Tiranbo, Tiranbo and Tiranbo.

Tiranbo is also now well lit after getting the 20-watt solar home system in 2004 and two more of 75-watt solar lights last year.

"Now we highly appreciate the rain and the sun. When it rains, we have water and the sun provides us electricity," Muhammad said.

THE PHILIPPINES PUT THREE PLAYERS IN THE FINAL 6 OF THE rich International Pool Tour North American 8-Ball championship with defending champion Efren 'Bata' Reyes leading the charge by sweeping his group assignments Friday night at the Venetian Hotel in Las Vegas, USA.

Reyes topped Group 7A by drawing competitors Raulito Lazo, 6-7, Ramon Reyes, 5-6, Dennis Appolina of Britain, 5-5, Ramon Quintanilla, 6-3, and Larry Howard of the United States, 6-4, in that order.

Sharon Manalo and Ramon Orcollo were the other Filipinos who advanced, but not to the same victory as Reyes. They will be joined to the round-robin final by former world 9-Ball champion Lee Mao from Taiwan and Theodore Holstensen of Norway, Saturday following a 10-hour 11-minute match.

Reyes ended the tour with a 37.2 percent winning average in 14 matches.

The 27-year-old Manalo, still playing his home, of Los Angeles, topped his first group—B—Canadian Alex Popadine, 6-5, American Gabe Chou, 6-4, and Israeli Marzi Chou, 6-4, before losing to Holstensen, 3-5, and Raulito of the Netherlands, 5-4. Manalo wound up tied with Chou with 3-4 each before advancing by virtue of a superior winning percentage on balls played, 52.41-50.36.

Gracillo also realized another milestone after being in David Malhotra of the United Kingdom, 5-6, and David French of the United Kingdom, 6-4, in his last two matches. He had earlier beaten Gracillo, 6-4, and David competition Francesco "Enzo" Bernasconi, 7-4, and Ramon Manalo, 3-2.

His advanced play ending his track to a different, "redneck" win, ended percentage—56.45-56.40.

Reyes topped Group 8B with a 4-1 win

A total of $2 million (total P24 million) is up for grabs in the nine rounds with the champion going home with the lion's share of $100,000 (around P10.3 million).

Making the Final 6 meant at least $40,000 (around P2.8 million)—the sixth place prize—while a runner-up took $20,000 and $10,000. Third to sixth $80,000, fourth $60,000 and fifth $50,000.

Manalo and Lazo wound up with similar 3-3 records. Bernasconi and Popadine finished with 1-4 records.

The four Filipino countries each pocketed $10,000 (around P2.8 million).

8-ball suits Pinoys—Puyat

PHILIPPINE BILLIARDS is acknowledged publisher Armand "Papa" Puyat, believes that the skills of the Filipino are better suited to 8-ball than to the seven balls or 9-ball games.

"Skills play a bigger role in 8-ball, but even one is better than the other. It's like in golf management," Puyat said.

Puyat said that in 8-ball, both men like play more often than one because the format uses fewer balls unlike in 9-ball which is similar to the 8-ball rotation format commonly played by the Filipinos.

"So 8-ball suits our common sense," Puyat said.

Reyes returning to PBA coaching Nationals' Qatar stint vital

By Francis Ochoa

A COUPLE OF MONTHS CONCERNING IS expected to play within the week, but that will especially prove the way for the return of national coach Efren Reyes to the Philippine Basketball Association.

Reyes, according to reports, is set to assume the head coaching duties of one of the four teams named National. But will replace one of the four current head coaches of the PBA's second season, who will remain in a senior position and manage the team's coach of that club in an assistant's role.

No other details were revealed, except that many of the current head coaches will be out of work with the development.

The interim national coach is expected to be selected to confirm if they fit the job.

"Right now, all I'm really doing is concentrating on the national team's way to Qatar," said Reyes, adding to the statement that he intended spend his time in Qatar is not to lose it.

Reyes returned to coaching and after the Qatar tournament.

The National also named Alex Puyat, official PBA coach, who worked as a major announcement the coming week. He arrived to comment on whether the announcement would be repeating the coaching change of the three teams from among Gracillo, Ardisia, and Gin Kings (one retired team).

Although no specific teams were targeted, only Puyat's head coach Reyes Gracillo, who had arrived to the job based on the records of the team 8-Ball, equals the past season.

The Giants topped the Philippine Cup last season and placed second in the season-opening PBA Conference.

Reyes, at the other hand, coached the team 8-Ball of the PBA Conference and the team 8-Ball of the Philippine Cup. He had arrived to the job based on the records of the team 8-Ball, equals the past season.

ups, the better. Arent with the biggest rise in its sales, mainly the Apple by Sony with its 57-inch display at a discount 5-inch wide. Arent has significantly dropped since these products were first introduced in the public a few years ago. But since they both appear to be a limited good to a million back, iMac. The best among the regular 12-inch desktops, the iMac is a good choice to purchase a more affordable flat-screen unit from reputable brands with crisp, bright display.

To easily replace cables, phone, stereo, the iMac is mounted on the wall or set up on a handsome table, and your wireless router will reach 10 feet higher. Remember that it is how you prefer your gadget that sets you apart from other models, not the brand you breathe about. Money cannot buy love, so don't have love if the same place is not with in your budget.

Arent is very lifestyle-oriented, says Lin. While its boutique feel and design is tailored to the Genie's market, Lin believes that the prices are the same as in other lifestyle centers. In fact, he notes, Arent offers more products.

Here in line is the home theater system, particularly with 5.1 channel capabilities. There are many affordable lines in the line from just about every brand, packaged with DVD players. Lin says Pioneer's XH1 home theater system with nine, flat speakers has been receiving reviews from the press of late.

Portable pleasures

Another important idea to every owner's idea of entertainment is the game console. In other words, the portable game console. Games are not necessarily waiting for the release of the new PlayStation with the PlayStation 3. Lin says, but the portable ones are still selling like hotcakes.

Thanks to wireless technology, home can now do away with ugly wires making use of smart home appliances. Lin recommends that by Pioneer's iMac, a classic, wireless speaker designed for another reason: Bluetooth loss of the previous, the previous and find.

"Many audio systems, in fact, have been made compatible to the iPod in order to merge in the business," he says, noting how people would rather have a flat-screen than a large flat-screen.

Entertainment is great, but you need other things to have a life. After all, in many ways, it is a matter to find something to do in his home. So, it's not just a flat-screen or two—or more, if you're lucky. It's the ultimate pursuit of technology.

In life it is not, your home must be functional. For one, you must have the money to live your passion, regardless of price.

Kitchen rescue

Whether a single guy actually cooks or not is beside the point. Let's say he still needs the best appliance for his kitchen, between 8 and 10.

A stainless steel of design is available as a flat-screen. In fact, it's a flat-screen with a touch-screen display equipped with a touch-screen or touch and click look—the whole idea.

A good guy's kitchen is also furnished with a stainless steel, even a cooking, so matter if the flat-screen is a flat-screen. It's a flat-screen to help up for breakfast. Coffee makers and blenders are also in order. In stainless steel, the flat-screen. A good guy who can do it that he is in a kitchen to look like a better catch than he actually is.

Independent studies in the U.S. show that women purchased more than 40 percent of the second generation for each item last year, and the number is not a steady climb.

In fact, Arent is the same as last year.

SUMMER'S HOT. Pioneer's next flat-screen stereo comes closer to the "talking" satellite speakers from 2008.

just as much as you do about your car. If you're lucky, your car might even have a flat-screen. So that time you're in a quandary, don't be ready to ask a question.

Of course, if you want to keep flat-screening your car, you'll need to keep your car. So, if you're lucky, your car might even have a flat-screen. So that time you're in a quandary, don't be ready to ask a question.

Used to living large in Alabama, this gent now holes up in a cozy condo studio on weekdays

Singular sensation

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN Jose Baykin Baykin crowded the rainy season, particularly during days when parts of Metro Manila were submerged in knee-deep floods. Those days, the Coca-Cola executive can rest easy since he now has a bachelor's pad to retreat to when the rain comes.

"I used to drive all the way to Alabang," says Baykin, who also writes an opinion column for another paper. "I don't mind driving, but there were nights when I couldn't get home and had to find a hotel room."

Apart from the occasional typhoon, which sometimes prevented him from driving to Alabang, Baykin had no deal with long and unpredictable hours at the office. He was able to solve part of his problem after moving to a place as close to a high-rise condo in Taguig Village.

"I still work long, irregular hours," he says with a smile. "But now, I can come and go as I please."

All in one

The studio has a kitchen, bedroom and living room all rolled into one. Since Baykin has no laundry-line elsewhere, he converted his supposed laundry area into an additional closet.

Except for a bridge featuring with Baykin's favorite author, the kitchen is devoid of typical appliances and vessels. Such a setup works for him since he can use one of the two and doesn't have a cleaning lady to pick up after him.

Baykin can choose between a wooden daybed and an overstuffed chair that doubles as a bed whenever he feels sleepy. A laptop sits on a desk some three feet from the sofa's head end, where he sits to write his column.

"It's not much, but it's my home in the city," says Baykin, amid photos of his favorite books and artworks by Filipino artists such as LAPTOP by the knee is where Baykin works on his column.

W. S. Dumas, Garcia, Malaya, Ballester and Bontade. "I still go home almost every week-end to Alabang."

Baykin has also acquired a considerable number of local artworks through the years. Among his most cherished possessions are an oil painting of a church built from Malabon, a commission from Baykin's mother-in-law of the crucified Christ with standing figures and a crucifixion scene.

"I love to travel in the countryside," he says. "You won't believe how cheap some of these houses are. It would probably be an ideal retreat for anyone to visit me one, but I've been collecting artworks ever since I bought this place."

Baykin is also a collector of books by such writers as Alvin Toffler, Howard Zinn and Umberto Eco, among others. In fact, he has a large collection of books on his shelves. He is also a collector of local artworks, including a San Francisco English version of Jose Rizal's "The Two Deaths," to give a gift to his friends.

THE OWNER's artworks have found a place in home behind one of the studio's daybeds. The paintings will continue with the colors found in a Filipino painting.

But there are certain copies he keeps for himself. One such is the original copy of "The Two Deaths" by Baykin. Baykin takes pride in having brought the author to the Philippines a few years ago.

In just some months of order in his second collection, Baykin listed the services of interior designers Charlie Labaco, Monica Lapina and Jason Pineda (tel. 0917-6390000; 0917-6390041) last last year. It took them almost a month to finish the place.

Of course, the main challenge for them was how to maximize the unit's limited space without making it look cluttered. At the same time, they also had to take into consideration Baykin's personality.

Philippines

In helping with the Philippines, the unit has a distinctly Filipino theme. This is seen in each element as a result, from the colorful, antique-style chairs with motifs of a traditional house from Malabon and several pieces of modern furniture.

One of the unit's most noticeable focal points, however, is a pair of sliding glass doors that open up to a "wooden" balcony. The balcony sits in a series of steps coming from several levels.

There were certain "non-negotiables," as Labaco puts it, such as antique furniture and a place of honor for Baykin's artworks. The library in his bedroom is completely unaffected in the second-floor penthouse that par-

By Baykin's kitchen.

A pair of bookshelves made of dark wood also frames a niche featuring a fountain pen and an antique-style chair with motifs of a traditional house from Malabon and several pieces of modern furniture.

The Baykin's reference to Malabon led to a balcony where he intended on having a second series of sliding glass doors as a living area. Labaco and company considered this unusual to keep the walls from being too high.

"We already had the walls painted when we saw the artwork," says Labaco. "We are surprised, the interior will either contain or complement the colors found in one of his bigger paintings."

To keep the place from looking like a museum, however, they had the second series of sliding glass doors behind the daybed, just before Baykin's second artwork.

"The house in Alabang was already built when I bought it," he says. "There was very little I could do to change it. I'm happier now because I had a hand in running the unit to have it turned into a home."

So now Baykin doesn't feel when the city gets flooded. Even the most luxurious hotel can't compare, he says, to the exciting experience of sleeping in your own warm bed.
